5 Top Tips to Reinvent Your Dental Practice

Whether you’ve owned your own dental practice for a while or you’re just getting started, it’s always a good idea to take a careful look at how you’re running your office. This means looking at how you could reduce your bottom line, while keeping current patients happy and attracting new ones on a regular basis.

Take a look at these five tips to see what changes you can make in your practice to accommodate the needs of today’s dental patients.

1. SHARE YOUR SPACE
   Does your office routinely sit empty a few mornings or afternoons per week? What about Saturday and Sunday? Many dental professionals today are trimming their costs by sharing their workspaces with other dentists when they’re not in the office. Space sharing will improve your bottom line by substantially cutting your overhead. To avoid potential HIPAA violations when sharing space, be mindful to protect all confidential patient information (including electronic files) from disclosure to unauthorized individuals.

2. EXTEND YOUR HOURS
   Today’s patients expect their health care professionals to be open for business when it’s most convenient for them, such as before 9 am and after 5 pm or on the weekend. If you’re only offering Monday through Thursday, 8 am to 5 pm, then you’re catering to the unemployed, who are less likely to see a dentist.

3. MAXIMIZE YOUR HYGIENE DEPARTMENT
   Make sure your hygiene team expands as your patient list grows. It’s important to accommodate your patients for their cleaning appointments, not only with plenty of time slots to choose from, but with convenient hours, such as evenings and weekends. When more patients receive regular hygiene care, it may increase your restorative work, too.

4. EXPAND YOUR SERVICES
   Can you offer more services from your location? If you perform more services yourself or share your office with a colleague who complements your expertise, such as an endodontist or orthodontist, you’ll be offering your patients convenience, while also reducing your costs with a partner. This lets you expand your practice to the next level even without adding new patients. Also consider adding the latest technology, such as digital radiography and electronic health records.

5. USE DIGITAL COMMUNICATIONS
   Your presence on the web is essential. At the very least, you need a basic website that lists information about your practice, such as your contact information and hours. Providing an online form for patient information or appointments and following up with email communication is also helpful. Another great way to handle appointment reminders is via text message. Providing these conveniences will go a long way in retaining patients and acquiring new ones. Ask your patient for their approval of any manner of communication, and limit the message information provided in order to avoid violations of HIPAA. Notice of an upcoming appointment or reminders of a need to call the office are generally not considered to be in violation of the rule.

Reducing Hand Pain

Dentists, dental hygienists and dental assistants may experience hand pain in doing dental procedures. Hand pain may include throbbing, aching, altered sensation, stiffness or diminished strength. Although pain in the hand can originate from problems in the arm, shoulder area or neck, and from systemic diseases, pain that originates in the hand itself is frequently due to either osteoarthritis or tendonitis. As always, consult a physician for any persistent problem, but here is an overview of these common complaints.

Osteoarthritis is characterized by slight misalignment of finger and thumb joints, erosion of joint cartilage and eventual inflammation, swelling, and pain. The problem can occur in any of the finger joints, but is most common in the basal joint of the thumb and the distal joints of the fingers. The pain may be first noticed during physical activities such as gripping and maneuvering instruments, but can become persistent or episodic.

Tendonitis is characterized by inflammation of tendons and possible development of nodules on the tendons that impede smooth movement of the tendon through the tendon sheath. Pain and weakness may initially be experienced when gripping objects, as well as stiffness in flexing and extending the joint. Tendonitis may occur acutely or can become a chronic condition. The physical demands and the hand motions used in providing oral health care may aggravate tendonitis and osteoarthritis.

The following are examples of hand motions that may aggravate hand pain:
- Gripping instruments that have slim handles, such as periodontal probes, explorers, scalers, curettes, and endodontic files.
Gripping instruments tightly by pinching with the thumb and finger(s).

Gripping instruments with static intensity for a long period of time. This can happen when doing procedures that require precise, small movements, such as working in small areas, while trying to prevent injury to surrounding tissues.

Gripping vibrating instruments, such as a rotary hand piece, over a long period of time.

Lifting heavy objects or doing forceful movements with the finger(s), such as tooth extraction or using heavier instruments.

Doing procedures that require torquing motions in the wrist and hand, such as cleaning root canals.

Doing procedures that require repetitive motion over a long period of time, such as scaling teeth.

Using the fingers while the wrist is held in a non-neutral position, especially a flexed position for a long period of time. This is most commonly done while scaling teeth.

Below is a list of tips for lessening the physical demands on the hand:

- Use instruments that perform many of the functions the hand would ordinarily perform and so reduce movements of the hand; such instruments are those that swivel and reduce torque.

- Use instruments that lessen the time the hand must be used, such as instruments that have variable and rapid speeds.

- Use instruments that reduce stress on the hand, such as those that are vibration free, lightweight, and have enlarged handles.

- Use instruments that improve access to the work area, such as instruments that provide bright or intense illumination, magnification, multiple spray ports.

- Reduce the time spent doing the same task. For example, take a ten minute break at least once every hour from doing tasks requiring grip.

- Use hand stabilizing techniques when doing precise hand tasks.

- After completing a task that required intense grip, gently stretch the hand, especially the area between the thumb and first finger.

- If pain continues to worsen, consider seeing a physician for a medical evaluation and treatment of the condition. A splint might provide support of the hand.

5 REASONS TO ATTEND THE 2019 ANNUAL CONVENTION

We know how easy it is to talk yourself out of committing to that annual meeting year after year, so we’re providing the information you need to make attending a no-brainer.

Being active in your association can bring with it many benefits, but being engaged and participating in meetings will help you to really capitalize on the return on your investment.

The GDA is all about you and we want you to feel like family. There is power in being connected to others who are active in your industry. One of the best ways to experience this is at our Annual Convention & Expo.

1. Expand your knowledge and find innovative solutions for your business.

GDA Convention & Expo makes it possible for you to not only complete your continuing education requirements for licensing but it gives you the freedom to choose the topics that interest you. We are offering 40 CE hours with Practice Management and Clinical course options, including a symposium on digital dentistry and all courses required for licensure.

Attendees can complete an impressive 18 hours of CE credit in just a few days and they can do it while at a luxurious beachside resort.

CE isn’t the only way to expand your knowledge. Our exhibit hall, meetings and activities expose you to new ideas and trends that can impact your future. This is an opportunity to hold new tools in your hand, get first hand answers to questions and hands-on demonstrations for products that may give you an edge in the field.

Discovering innovative products and services for your business is necessary to stay competitive.

2. Meet experts and influencers face to face

Every year the GDA Convention features speakers and instructors that are experts in dentistry. The GDA convention is a place where you can learn from and run ideas by influencers in the field. And with more than 300 dentists in attendance, it’s a perfect location to make professional connections.

3. Networking /Social Events

Sometimes Facebook just isn’t enough. We offer opportunities for attendees to mix and mingle, form new relationships, and strengthen existing ones. These opportunities begin with the kick-off breakfast and extend through the weekend. Visit our GDA Beach Tent where you can meet up with friends, family and colleagues (and maybe get some free swag) and end the convention on a high-note with our Saturday Night Celebration where everyone comes together to compete with their districts in lip sync, karaoke, a limbo contest, and more.

4. Fun and Activities

Conferences are fun! The GDA Convention & Expo is more than your average convention. It’s a family friendly vacation that’s packed with dozens of activities and opportunities to create lasting memories together. Enjoy family activities like a Backwater Cat adventure, Cumberland Island boat tour, sunset cruise and the ever-popular Saturday night celebration with a host of activities and a kids glow party. Don’t worry. There’s adult-only fun, too. Enjoy events such as the GDA lounge, happy hour and the downtown pub crawl.

5. It’s an investment in yourself, your career and your business

By attending the convention, you’re investing in your own growth. Leaving the office and participating in your association’s convention gives you a fresh perspective. You learn new things and refresh your knowledge of classic techniques. You’re positioning yourself as an expert by being active in your industry and developing a reputation amongst your peers.

We have so much to offer your dental team, as well. So, bring them with you and foster their growth. Allowing your employees to get out of the office, gain confidence in their abilities, and bring fresh ideas back to the office is an investment in your own business.

The Committee and staff have been hard at work planning our annual retreat to Amelia Island for the GDA Convention & Expo. This event has been a definite in our calendar for the last seven years and now my children expect to visit Amelia Island every year. They would rather go to Amelia Island than Italy for the summer because over the years they have made friends that they connect with and meet on annual basis and catch up. For the last seven years, I have attended as a member and as a delegate. This year is different. I am sort of in charge. Of course, it’s a team effort and every staff member, speaker and attendee makes the meeting a true success.

Over the years, the meeting has evolved with new member attendance, a better and comprehensive CE line up and more captivating keynote speakers. This year is going to be even better. Dr. Shatz and I have introduced a CE line up that connects dentistry with what the future holds. One of the CE highlights is a focus around the central theme of a digital future. We will have a symposium on digital dentistry. Practitioners at all levels of familiarity with new and emerging technology will be able to introduce this technology at any level they feel comfortable—from a single tooth restoration to full mouth restorations and implant prosthodontics.

There will be CE courses on other topics including financial management, practice management, and opioids. This year we will enjoy an expert on team building, professor Don Lang from the Executive MBA program at Kennesaw State University. Professor Lang is an expert in the area and lectures in the US and across the Atlantic for many multinational corporations. Be sure to benefit from his expertise as I have. I had the pleasure of learning from him as his student.

Of course, there is no point in going to Amelia Island if one can’t have any fun. If last year was any indication of fun, I can assure you we will raise it by few notches with live band karaoke. Even no-hopers like me can start singing when the music is right. We plan on getting everyone involved. We do plan on changing the music slightly to the 80s. There will be district challenges and kids’ programs to keep everyone involved. Our tradeshow and expo is expecting almost 100 vendors. Be there to participate in happy hour and fellowship. GDA has a special reception for new dentists on Friday and there will be a beach tent waiting to just cool you off from the sun on Friday and Saturday.

Our keynote speaker this year is a very special artist, Richard Hight. He will perform a sketch as he speaks and motivates you. It is an amazing display of art, experiences of life, and positive messages. One can organize all the activities and events, however fun truly comes from fellowship and company. Each year, our Convention & Expo has attracted higher attendance and this trend shall continue because the friendly and relaxing few days at the beach with the right people seems to be the true attraction.

My team at GDA, Dr. Bradberry and I look forward to your company.

See you soon,
Dr. Kumar Patel, GDA Convention & Expo Chair

In the fall of 2016, the Georgia School of Orthodontists (GSO) enrolled its first class with one location in Atlanta and a patient base starting at zero. In December of 2017, a second campus opened in Gwinnett and the school’s patient base grew to 2,500 established active patients. Today, 54 dentists and 2 fellows are receiving orthodontic training at its two Atlanta-area campuses, making it the largest orthodontic residency program in the nation.

The school’s mission, says GDA member and GSO Program Director Dr. Ricky Harrell, is to educate qualified dentists to become specialists in orthodontics and dentofacial orthopedics with a commitment to excellence in patient centered care, effective teaching, meaningful research, and service to the community.

“Our two patient clinics provide state-of-the-art technology and also offer exceptional orthodontic care to children and adults throughout metro Atlanta,” says Dr. Harrell. “With 54 resident dentists, 14 orthodontic specialists, a periodontist and an oral/maxillofacial radiologist, we can treat an unprecedented number of patients. We are also very proud to be able to provide increased access to orthodontic care to patients that otherwise may not be able to afford braces through the complimentary care programs we offer,” he added.

In describing the school’s 36-month residency program, Dr. Harrell says it includes intensive didactic, clinical, and research components that are taught in state-of-the-art facilities with technologically advanced equipment and materials. Its two campuses have over 21,000 square feet of clinical, academic, and administrative spaces, with the largest research institute in the nation, he says. Clinical technology includes 3D Intraoral Scanners, a CBCT scanner (3-D X-ray), and 100% digital records for maximum efficiency.

Eighteen students are selected for the Residency Program each year. GDA member Dr. Robert Moss, whose daughter, Catharine Brannon, is a member of the GSO charter class, says it has been a positive experience. “The opportunity to interact with co-residents who attended dental schools from all over the country enables her to broaden her background in dentistry.” Courses on diagnosis and treatment planning are taught in addition to courses in the business of orthodontic practice to create a well-rounded professional. "It is our mission to create professionals who exhibit diversity and will provide affordable orthodontic care to underserved communities," says Dr. Harrell.

Resident dentists are educated by 16 orthodontic faculty who have experience in the areas of full-time academics as well as full-time private practice in the orthodontic profession. Dr. Harrell says the faculty includes Diplomates of the American Board of Orthodontists in Atlanta and world-renowned researchers, supported by administrative and clinical staff.

GSO also offers a non-accredited one-year fellowship program for up to six dental school graduates per year who would like to pursue a career in orthodontics. Fellows attend all classes with the first-year residents and participate in the clinic, subject to obtaining a Georgia Dental License.

Philanthropic Endeavors

"In addition to orthodontic education, GSO serves the Atlanta community through its philanthropic endeavors, and its pledge to provide $100,000 in complimentary orthodontic care over the first three years," says Dr. Harrell. To date, nine local children were selected to receive orthodontic care at no cost through GSO's Gift of a Smile and Smiles for Gwinnett Programs. Through its Purple Heart Smiles Program, the School partnered with the Georgia Dental Foundation to provide complimentary, high-quality orthodontic care treatment to children (currently 20 in the program) of veterans who received a Purple Heart and were wounded, injured, or killed during their service. In addition, the Georgia School of Orthodontics Cleft Palate and Craniofacial Center will provide comprehensive complimentary treatment to over one hundred children born with cleft lip, cleft palate, and craniofacial anomalies, says Dr. Harrell. GSO’s commitment to serve also includes assisting its residents with their cost of education and has provided over $1,350,000 in scholarships since its inception.

The Day My Life Changed Forever

A fictional story based on true events.

It started off like any other day. My wife and my son Sam, 18, were out running errands while I was working in the yard. That evening, I got a call that they were involved in a car accident. The next thing I remember was standing in a hospital room with our son, Sam, while we waited to hear about my wife, Patricia. Sam had sustained a severe head injury, but the doctors were not sure to what extent.

After waiting a few hours, the doctor explained that they did everything they could, but Patricia had succumbed to her injuries. I was devastated, but I did my best to keep it together for Sam. There was another driver involved. His name was Tony. He had a broken leg and a punctured lung from a rib and was in surgery.

According to the police report, my wife was ruled at fault for the accident. I spent the next few years on the phone with insurance companies and my attorney. That’s right, years! As a result of the accident, Tony had multiple surgeries due to complications stemming from his original injuries and still needs physical therapy to this day. Sam’s head injury caused him to have some memory loss and speech issues. Even worse, I lost my wife of 25 years. Losing her broke my heart in ways I cannot express.

Thankfully, I did have insurance. Years ago, my insurance agent called us into her office and helped us take a hard look at all of our insurance policies. Though it was difficult to even fathom at the time, my insurance agent convinced my wife and I to buy life insurance policies on our entire family. No, a life insurance policy did not bring Patricia back, but I was able to grieve in peace knowing that all of her medical and funeral expenses were covered. Many people do not understand the value of insurance. I was one of those people. I never thought this would happen to my family, but unfortunately life chose us to experience this. I am grateful that my insurance agent prepared us and that I can share my story with others.

Though we like to think this would never happen to us, sometimes it does. Don’t be afraid to have tough conversations with your insurance agent. Your agent is here to prepare and protect you in the good times and the unthinkable times. Call your GDIS agent today. 770-395-0224

Dear Concerned Parent,

Talking about insurance when it comes to my client’s children can be difficult because, as an agent, I have to ask parents uncomfortable questions. Understand this is not a simple question, but my quick advice is to make sure you have adequate liability limits on your auto policy and make sure she is listed on the policy. Here is an article to help you start the conversation with your agent about insurance and protecting your family, even when the unthinkable happens.

2018 Annual Health State Scores’ Shown by Ranking

*Weighted standard deviation relative to U.S. value. A score of zero is equal to the U.S. value.

Source: America’s Health Rankings Annual Report, 2018 Edition, ©2018 United Health Foundation. All rights reserved.
In December 2018, the United Health Foundation released its 29th America’s Health Rankings, which is the longest-running annual ranking assessment of the states in the United States. The markers to gauge overall health included clinical care, outcomes data, policy changes, and environment. Below are the 2018 state rankings. Georgia ranks as #39, which is an improvement from being ranked #41 in 2017.

According to this report, the challenges listed for Georgia are:

- Low immunization coverage for children
- High prevalence of low birthweight
- High percentage of uninsured population

It is important to note that the number of dentists per capita also had an impact on overall health, ranking Georgia as the 46th state for number of dentists per capita. At the time of this report, Georgia had 47.2 dentists per 100,000 people (versus the national average of 60.9 dentists per 100,000).
This report may not accurately reflect barriers to oral health in Georgia however. Only 6% of people in Georgia report that a reason for not visiting the dentist more often is due to difficulty finding an available provider.

A huge barrier to care that consumers in Georgia face regarding dentistry is no adequate funding source for dental care for low-income individuals. Currently, Medicaid only covers emergency extractions for adults in Georgia.

The Georgia Dental Association and its member dentists have been creating diverse, creative solutions to address barriers to care outlined in Georgia’s Action for Dental Health:

- Placing more dentists in rural communities by getting more slots for the student loan repayment program administered by the Georgia Board for Physician Workforce.
- Delivering dental care to low- or no-income individuals through the Georgia Mission of Mercy. Over $6,586,796 of dental care has been provided through the Georgia Mission of Mercy since 2011.
- Establishing the Donated Dental Services program, a statewide program to treat the medically fragile and elderly populations in the state at no cost.
- Establishing an Adjunct Professor Program in partnership with the Dental College of Georgia and Department of Public Health to place students in rural areas and provide dental care at low costs which also getting training by an experienced GDA dentist.

If you have any questions regarding Georgia’s Action for Dental Health, current initiatives providing solutions to barriers of care in Georgia, or this report, please visit our website at gadental.org or contact the Georgia Dental Association at 404-636-7553.

This column highlights GDA members talking about their path to dentistry and the value they find in GDA membership. This month, we hear from Dr. Cherie Murray in the Central District.

Meet Dr. Cherie Murray
How did you become a GDA member?
I was a member of ASDA during dental school at the Dental College of Georgia. I joined GDA my first year of practice as a general practitioner, after completion of my AEGD residency program. As dental students we hear about all of the many resources and benefits such as tripartite membership, CE courses, and opportunities to connect with other dentists, so it was an innate decision that I made to join.

What was your first member meeting?
The first meeting I attended as a dentist was at a Central District meeting held in Macon about a year ago. I decided to go to the event to start my journey as an active GDA member. I am interested in inter-professional topics and the speaker and topic was one of great interest to me. A local rheumatologist spoke about immunosuppressive drugs and the implications of dental treatment on these patients.

Who introduced you to GDA?
It was a combination of colleagues and the influence of GDA's presence while in dental school.

What is your most memorable GDA experience?
The most memorable thing I’ve experienced because of GDA was in 2015 when I attended Law Day at the Capitol while in dental school. It was a cold day in Atlanta and a few classmates and I met with GDA dentists for breakfast at a nearby office building; the late Dr. Torbush was president of GDA and he, too, along with his wife, were present. All of the ladies had beautiful scarves to wear into the Capitol. I wanted to make sure that my scarf was perfect. Mrs. Torbush offered to help me tie mine (I still have that scarf). Just having the scarf around my neck made me feel very diplomatic. Upon entering the Capitol, the students were split into groups and I was the lead speaker in my group. I was to present the congressman with our issue and ask for his support. I was nervous, yet excited to speak with a congressman as a representative of the dental profession!

What would you tell a dental student about GDA?
I would definitely encourage dental students to become involved with the Georgia Dental Association, as the organization provides a wealth of resources and assistance to young dentists, like myself. I have called or emailed GDA employees to ask questions and have always been provided with a prompt answer. It is an organization in full support of its members. GDA also serves as a platform to grow in the profession of dentistry through the various CE resources that are offered to members. It also enables dentists to meet and connect with colleagues not only in the region where you practice, but statewide as well.

Have you made any friendships through GDA?
Yes, I have! I consider myself to be a very social person, so it is easy for me to connect with strangers. At almost every GDA event that I have attended, I have found at least one person to connect with and build a professional relationship in which we help and support one another.

In your opinion, what is the single most important thing GDA can do to help members?
The GDA can continue to be supportive of members and continue to educate and inform members of all that GDA offers and provides for its members.

What did you want to be when you were growing up?
A flight attendant! I have always had a passion for traveling and I have been flying, unattended, since the age of 7.

What was your first job?
I had a work-study job in college in the HR department of the local school board.

Why did you decide to become a dentist?
Not every child has the privilege of personally knowing their dentist; but I did. My uncle was my dentist growing up. He had his own practice and taught dentistry for many years at the University of Pennsylvania. He encouraged me throughout my childhood and in college to become a dentist. To further explore the possible career option of dentistry, I volunteered at the Good Samaritan Clinic in Atlanta, Georgia for over a year prior to my decision to attend dental school. While volunteering at Good Sam, I realized that going to the dentist was a privilege. The patients at Good Sam were there because it more than likely was their only option to seek dental treatment. During my time there, I gained a great rapport with the dentists and auxiliary staff and it helped me to better understand community health dentistry. My late uncle’s influence coupled with volunteer experience solidified my decision to become a dentist.

What advice would you give to an aspiring dental student?
I would advise them to spend as much time as possible shadowing dentists, various types of dental specialties, and community health centers to best determine if dentistry is the right career for them. I would also advise them to contact dental professional organizations to gain a better understanding of the benefits of organized dentistry.

What do you enjoy doing in your spare time?
I like to travel, but an ideal weekend is doing nothing and sitting on my couch binge watching my favorite TV shows!

Without saying “I am a dentist,” what would you say if someone asked what you do?
I help people obtain optimal oral health, and educate them on the importance of oral health and how it affects systemic health.

What is your all-time dream vacation?
Fiji Islands.

What is your all-time best investment?

What Members Like You are Saying

“When GDA recently welcomed members to join GDA Plus+ Supplies without the fee, we jumped and have never been happier. Prices seem to run about 15–35% lower on average, and turn around is perhaps a day or two longer: No problem since we don’t wait until we’re out of supplies. The kicker was when our former supplier offered us ‘new pricing structure in line with one of our aggressive buying groups.’ We chose to stick with GDA because had we gone back, there was nothing to prevent the prices from increasing again: The pressure would be gone. We highly recommend GDA Plus+ Supplies and consider it worthy of trying!” - Dr. David Marion
